

CC Industries Announces Creation of Provisur Technologies, Inc.

CHICAGO, Illinois – February 9, 2009 – CC Industries Inc. (CCI) announced today that it has created a new company, Provisur™ Technologies, Inc., as the new parent company for CCI's food processing equipment platform.

Provisur Technologies will be home to the Formax® brand of forming and slicing equipment, the Weiler® brand of grinding and mixing equipment, the Beehive® brand of meat recovery equipment, and the Young and Associates brand of forming equipment. Provisur will be headquartered in Mokena, Illinois.

Bill Crown, President and CEO of CCI comments, "Provisur, with its base of leading brands, starts from day one with a competitive sales and service advantage that will provide our customers with innovative solutions to help improve their bottom line. In keeping with our heritage, we will continue to foster a culture at Provisur that rewards our employees for product development ingenuity and exceptional customer service."

Provisur has named the following members of its newly formed Executive team: David Brown, VP Sales, North America; Andrew MacLeod, VP Sales, International; E. William (Bill) Wight, VP Product Development; Patrick Corcoran, VP Operations; Bill Dickover, VP Field Service. Provisur is conducting an executive search for a President/CEO to lead the new organization.

Dave Brown, VP Sales, North America adds, "Our Formax, Weiler, Beehive, and Young brands will thrive in this exciting new stage of our company development and will be very much at the forefront of our sales and marketing efforts within Provisur."

During the CEO search process, the Provisur Executive team will report to a subcommittee of the Board of Directors led by Mel Cohen and Kevin Howard from CCI's Corporate Development group.

CC Industries is a holding and management company for the Henry Crown Company's group of operating companies. Other holdings include Great Dane Limited Partnership and Gillig Corporation.
